

Devon Pinkus is a committed organizer and advocate for violence prevention through social justice. He works as the Men's Engagement Coordinator at the Rhode Island Coalition Against Domestic Violence (RICADV), where he manages domestic violence prevention goals, including Ten Men – a program to bring men together to explore our relationship with, and deepen our commitment to gender and social justice.

A native Pennsylvanian, Devon has worked in various roles in the education and nonprofit fields in Philadelphia and Providence. In each chapter of his career, his work has emphasized conflict resolution and the importance of relationships at an interpersonal level, and an analysis of systemic oppression at a social level. He is active in community organizing efforts in Providence, and is excited to contribute to the important work of Haven Box!
